Higher Drinking Age Likely

Committee Presents Recommendations

by Craig Brickey of the Archway Staff

Bryant students may see a change in campus policies regarding parties and other social events involving alcoholic beverages, according to the recently-released report of the Alcohol Task Force.

The Task Force, consisting of representatives from various campus organizations and four administrators, is headed by Mr. Peter Barlow, Director of Residence Life. The Committee was asked to investigate the increasing problem of alcohol abuse and related vandalism.

While the committee does not have the power to create new policy, it can, and did make recommendations that may be implemented by Mr. Leslie LaFond, Vice-President of Student Affairs. It is the intent of Mr. LaFond to implement the committee's recommendations only after discussion with the Student Senate, the Student Advisory Council, and other major campus groups.

The Recommendations the committee made involve three areas: (1) Dormitory Party Regulations, (2) Weeknight Activity Recommendations, and (3) General Recommendations.

Recommendations on Dormitory Parties include: limiting the size of parties to 25 per suite or 100 per floor, limiting the number of parties in a given dormitory to two per night, elimination of advertising, continued use of party permits, and special permits for keg beer.

For week-night activities, the Task Force recommended that the college not allow large-scale social events that promote the consumption of alcohol. This would not stop "wine and cheese" nights, for the focus of this recommendation would be based on whether the event revolved on the serving and consumption of alcoholic beverages. Wine and Cheese does not, in the opinion of the Committee fit this description.

General recommendations of the committee include: training bartenders in the responsibilities of serving alcohol, discouraging use of Salmanson Dining Hall for alcohol-related events, starting Alcohol Awareness with Freshmen Orientation, limiting the offering of free or discounted alcohol to students, and involving the Student Senate in the alcohol abuse problem on campus. It has also been suggested the SPB begin to offer "alternative social programs" and cultural, art, and music programs.

None of the above recommendations have been implemented to date. The only recommendation that has indeed been implemented has been establishing the Alcohol Task Force as a permanent committee. Only after careful deliberation with student leaders will Vice-President LaFond make any of these recommendations college policy.

Another problem that this committee may have to face is looming on the horizon. A bill to raise the drinking age to 20, which has the support and backing of Governor Garrahy, is now in legislative committee, and may be passed by the legislature in mid-February. This will seriously affect all alcohol policies at the college, as well as the campus pub and the Country Comfort. Mr. LaFond had no specific idea as to what would happen if such a law were passed.

Several similar bills, patterned after Massachusetts' recent raise of the drinking age from 18 to 20, never got out of legislative committee last March (See The Archway, March 6, 1979).

THE OPINIONS

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK....

New Medical Response System

The Bryant community now has an organized response system for all medical emergencies that may occur. The Bryant College Emergency Medical Technicians Association, or BCEMTA for short, is in full 24 hour operation after months of organization and training by several dedicated students, college administrators, and local officials.

BCEMTA is composed of Bryant students who have been licensed by the State of Rhode Island as Emergency Medical Technicians—a level equal to any Non-Paramedic rescue or ambulance attendant in the State.

The BCEMTA member carries a voice pager which is dispatched from the Security office. When a call is received there, the EMT is immediately paged to the scene to handle the problem. The member is met at the scene by the Security vehicle, which carries all of the Association's well stocked, up-to-date equipment. The victim is then treated to the best of their ability. If needed, the Smithfield Rescue is then called.

The system has been in operation for the past few months, and has met with much success. The new program replaces the old CPR response program in operation by the Security Department for the past few years. There are three members scheduled for duty at any one time—2 regular and one probationer, who is working his or her way to eventual regular status. The entire Association participates in monthly continuing education, consisting of training drills, handouts, lectures and films.

Any person or group interested in viewing the response system or any part of BCEMTA should contact the Association through P. O. Box 1891. If you are interested in becoming a member, contact either E. Jeffery Hutchinson, President; Michael A. Cei, VP and Training Officer; Gene Primomo, Treasurer; or Kevin Lampeter, Secretary.

Financial Aid

All students who wish to be considered for financial assistance for the next academic year, 1980-81, must adhere to the following procedures:

1. Obtain a Financial Aid Form from the Financial Aid Office.
2. Complete the FAF and forward to the College Scholarship Service in Princeton, New Jersey no later than February 15, 1980.
3. Complete and return the College's Financial Aid Application and Tax Waiver Form to the Financial Aid Office.

Each student's financial aid file will be complete when it contains a copy of the Financial Aid Form (FAF) from the College Scholarship Service, a Bryant College Application for Financial Aid and the Request for copy of U.S. Tax Return.

Review of applications will take place during the spring with award notifications forwarded to students during the summer of 1980. A two week reply for return of the award letter will be strictly enforced.

The Financial Aid Office urges all students who wish consideration for financial assistance to apply by the February 15 deadline date. Applications filed after this date will be considered only if funds are available.

If you have any questions concerning procedures, please come to the Office.

Letter Policy

We welcome your letters on matters that concern the Bryant Community. The few simple rules to follow about Letters To The Editor are: 1. They must be signed (with Phone No. or Box No. for verification). 2. They must be legible (not necessarily typewritten). 3. And they cannot be termed, in our judgement, libelous, obscene, or in poor taste.

Happy Writing!

CPR Training

A 9-hour course in Cardio-pulmonary Resuscitation will be offered at Bryant College on February 3, 10, and 17. There is a limit to the class size. The course will be taught by Michael Cei, American Red Cross instructor and Bryant College EMT Association training Officer. Sign up is in the Security Office.

Additional classes will be offered throughout the semester, not in any way connected with the TAP program. Those wanting to take courses this semester should leave their name in P. O. Box 1891.

New Gun Cabinet

The Gun Club of Bryant College in conjunction with the Office of Student Affairs, has established a gun cabinet for those students wishing to store firearms, ammunition, etc. on campus. The gun cabinet is located outside of the Security Office in the basement. Students wishing to store firearms will be able to check them in and out at all reasonable hours of the day. There will be a mandatory sign-in and sign-out sheet that each student must complete before they are allowed access to their firearm. This is for their protection as well as the college's.

According to the Student Handbook, firearms, and similar dangerous weapons or explosives are strictly prohibited from the college campus, and "violators will be subject to penalties which may include suspension or expulsion." Through the establishment of the gun cabinet, students may rightfully store weapons on campus.

If any student has questions concerning the storage of weapons on campus, please contact Steven Schlamp, President of the Gun Club. Further information concerning the Gun Club and its membership may be obtained by attending one of its meetings. Notices will be posted on all bulletin boards throughout the college.

Senior Notice

The Photographer from Brown Studios will be returning to Bryant February 4-8. Sign-up sheets will be posted outside the Ledger office later this week.

SENIORS AND SECOND SEMESTER JUNIORS: YOUR CAREER—CHOICE OR CHANCE??

A concentrated 6-week Career Planning Seminar is being offered to Seniors and second semester Juniors by the Career Planning and Placement Office. It is designed to help you in your personal planning for a career.

SESSION TOPICS FOR THE SERIES INCLUDE:

- *Determining your Career
- *Occupational Fields
- *Resumes and cover Letters—Tools of a Successful Job Search Strategy
- *Job Interviews—including in-class interviews with guest interviewers
- *Evaluating Job Offers
- *Campus to Job: The Transition
- *Class sessions will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays 12:00 noon to 1:00 p.m., February 12—April 3.

WHAT DO SOME OF THE SENIORS WHO HAVE COMPLETED THE SERIES SAY ABOUT IT?

"I would highly recommend it to those who don't know what they want to do."

"A good process to techniques and constructive criticism that can help the student become more aware of the working world."

"I feel more assured as to how to go about my search. Also more confident and relaxed about the interviews."

"A seminar such as this definitely adds to the college experience. What good is the college experience if one doesn't know how to go about the task of finding his/her career and job."

SIGN-UPS

If you are interested in learning more about this series, come to the Career Planning and Placement Office for more information and registration forms. You must register by Friday, February 1 to be considered for participation. The series will be limited to 25 students.

Investment

The Investment club will hold its first meeting on Wednesday, January 30, at 3:15 in Room 350.

All students who have paid dues must come to sign the stock broker transfer form. We will be discussing the changes in our portfolio and all members should bring their dues for this semester.

NEW MEMBERS WELCOME

A.A. at Bryant

Starting on February 7, 1980, a newly-formed group of Alcoholics Anonymous will meet from 12 noon to 1 p.m. at the Student Counseling Center. This will be a weekly meeting held every Thursday at the above time. The meeting is an "Open Discussion"; therefore, anyone is welcome to attend. Those attending may bring a lunch. Coffee is provided free.

The following colleges and universities now hold A.A. meetings on campus successfully:

Skidmore College
Sanford University
San Francisco State College
Freedonia State University in New York
University of Connecticut
Brown University
University of Rhode Island (URI)

The book Alcoholics Anonymous is now available in the reference library.

Military Science

Are you tired of the same old free electives? Would you like greater varieties of extra curricular activities? Why not try Military Science I, on campus in Room 267 on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 2:00-3:15.

Learn about the Military's role in American history and its leaders. For extra curricular activities try skiing with Providence College's R.O.T.C., the rifle team or orienteering. Numerous social functions such as parties, picnics and balls are also offered to the students of M.S.I.

For more information stop in Room 267 on Tuesday or Thursday or call 865-2472 anytime.

Cinema Critique

Best and Worst of 1979

By John P. O'Neil

Choosing the year's ten best and worst films can at times seem like an exercise in futility. Part of the problem comes in not having seen every single film of the year, especially foreign films. Another problem is trying to compare and rank different films. Some films are well worth seeing although they might be too long and slow-paced. Others may have terrific acting but not have anything important to say.

Generally, 1979 was a year dominated by horror, science fiction, and social commentaries that did have important things to say. The most critically successful films were the social commentaries with films such as The China Syndrome, North Dallas Forty, Hair, The Seduction of Joe Tynan, and Kramer vs. Kramer receiving generally good reviews. On the other hand, horror films and science fiction received only mixed reviews at best.

Here are my choices for the ten best films of 1979:

1. Apocalypse Now

Francis Ford Coppola's vision of the horror and moral dilemma of the Vietnam War is stunning and unforgettable. terrific cinematography and excellent performances by Martin Sheen and Robert Duvall.

2. Kramer vs. Kramer

Dustin Hoffman gives one of the best performances of his career in this sensitive film dealing with a child custody battle. Meryl Streep is again super as Hoffman's ex-wife who wants her child back after a long absence.

3. Breaking Away

The sleeper of the year. Highly entertaining film dealing with the clash between four working class friends and the local college crowd.

4. The China Syndrome

Compelling, tautly directed, and well-acted film concerning an attempt to cover up an accident at a nuclear power plant. Jack Lemmon gives an exceptional performance.

5. Rocky 2

Sylvester Stallone has proven that not all sequels are bad. His climactic rematch is likely to have you out of your seats cheering. A big audience pleaser.

6. Hair

Excellent choreography, good music, and terrific performances combine to produce an energetic and uplifting film, version of the Broadway play.

Although slightly disappointing, Woody Allen's latest film remains one of the year's most beautiful, aurally rich, and insightful films.

7. Manhattan

Joseph Wambaugh's retelling of a cop killing and the lengthy trial that followed is engrossing and powerful. Excellent performances by John Savage and James Woods.

9. And Justice For All

A highly entertaining and powerful, although overwrought satire of the American judicial system. Judges are depicted as suicidal or prejudicial, the laws are seen as unfair, and lawyers are idiots who put up with it all.

10. Escape from Alcatraz

Clint Eastwood gives an engrossing performance as a convict who fights for his freedom. Tautly directed and suspenseful.

Finally the ten worst films of the year include:

1. Let Me Die A Woman

This film is so bad I considered not including it in this list but since I never reviewed it, I must give fair warning: This is the most disgusting films I have ever seen.

2. Nightwing

A bunch of vampire bats invade the southwest. The only ones to feel sorry for in this disaster are the bats for being cast in such a bad film.

3. Hurricane

Dino DeLaurentis's remake of the earlier classic is more of a ridiculous, unintended comedy than a disaster film. Poorly acted, directed, and written.

4. Dawn of the Dead

The so-called horror in this film is not terrifying, its sick. Zombies invade a shopping mall and proceed to eat the inhabitants—all in living color.

5. More American Graffiti

Lacks any of the wit and innocence of Lucas's original film. Some of the worst visual effects I have seen in a major motion picture, poor direction, and a lousy screenplay.

6. Moonraker

A mad scientist attempts to destroy the world and start a race of perfect humans in outer space. 007 is out to stop him. The result are silly and gimmicky chase scenes and a weak and predictable plot.

7. Players

A boring love story which has nothing much to say. Corny, stupid dialogue and a bad acting by Ali MacGraw.

8. Running

An uninspired film, with an endless number of jogging scenes and also some poor acting by Susan Anspach. We never come to identify with the film's hero, we only pity him.

9. Starting Over

In my opinion, the most overrated film of last year, supposedly the man's version of An Unmarried Woman.

10. The following films were not so much complete failures and they were big disappointments: The Main Event Streisand and O'Neal are far less hilarious together than in What's Up Doc?; 1941 relies too heavily on expensive gags that don't always work; Star Trek and The Black Hole both never live up to their big budgets nor the amount of publicity they received.

The College Crookstore

By Paul Louis

Now I'm usually not one to complain, but the fact that I had to sell my car to pay for this semester's textbooks struck me as being a bit too much. Realizing that I would get no satisfactory answers to my questions from the bookstore management, I decided to call Rebel Industries, the parent conglomerate that operates our bookstore. I telephoned the main headquarters in Cement, New Jersey and spoke with a regional sales manager by the name of Jefferson Wallace. "Hello Mr. Wallace. My name is Paul Louis, and I would like to ask you a few questions." "What about you dumb Northerner?" Mr. Wallace replied in a slow drawl. "Well for starters, what other businesses does Rebel Industries run?" "I'm glad you asked me that, Yankee," said Mr.

Wallace brightly. "Rebel Industries specializes in many fields. For example, we have one company that manufactures fake knotholes for wood paneling; we have another company that produces American flags for export to Iran. We operate a travel agency for the prisoners in R.I.'s A.C.I., and we are also selling home pregnancy kits door to door." "Is that product a success?" "Well no," said Mr. Wallace. "We've found that most women prefer to get pregnant the old-fashioned way!" It was now beginning to dawn on me why the South had lost the war.

"If all of those companies are losing money, Mr. Wallace," I continued, "How does Rebel Industries make money?" "It's like this boy," he started. "Our company has a tiny bookstore in some hick college where we bleed those suckers dry."

"You wouldn't happen to be talking about the Bryant Bookstore would you?" "Well I do believe you're right, boy. Yeah, those people up there will buy anything in the store with the word 'Bryant' stamped on it. As a matter of fact we've got a new line of 'Bryant Underwear' coming out in the spring. It's dyed in the school colors and has two big 'B's' where they'll be appreciated, heh, heh." I shuddered at the thought. "What's your policy concerning the sale of textbooks?" I asked. Mr. Wallace continued to chuckle.

"Bryant's bookstore motto is, 'If you got 'em by the ———, don't let go!' We can run our bookstore anyway we want and charge whatever we think the students can bear!" "Aren't you afraid of the students and Professors uproar over your policies?" "Nah," said Mr. Wallace confidently. "As long as the only group we have to answer to in Bryant is the Financial department, we ain't got a thing to worry about." "Is there anything in the Bryant bookstore that's reasonably priced?" I asked. Mr. Wallace thought a long time.

"Oh yeah!" he exclaimed. "We did get a special buy on notebooks and we've got them marked a whole dime below our regular retail cost!" "But Mr. Wallace, what if the Professors decide to drop textbooks and just assign their classes to get notebooks instead?"

"Simple, you dumb Yankee, we'll just raise the price of the notebooks to twenty dollars!"

Trinity Square

"The Suicide"

Nikolai Erdman wrote a play in the late 1920's which depicted the universal struggle between good and evil. Unfortunately, this play called "The Suicide," was never seen in Erdman's native Russia, even though such theatrical giants as Meyerhold and Stanislavski attempted to produce it. "The Suicide" has been translated by George Genereux, Jr., and Jacob Volkov and will be presented by the Trinity Square Repertory Company from January 18 through February 17, 1980. The play will be directed by Jonas Jurasas, another native of the Soviet Union who was forced to leave his country four years after having been declared a non-person because of his theatrical activities.

"The Suicide" is a moving and disturbing work. Erdman provides something for everyone: slapstick, farcical comedy, socio-political satire and a commentary on the human scene that goes far beyond the limits of satire and comedy. Semyon Semyonovich Podskalnov is out of work, dependent on his wife and mother-in-law for his living. He has given up his life for the Revolution and received nothing back; not even the right to work. Through a series of ludicrous and extreme circumstances, he finds himself a center of love and admiration. Suddenly he finds that

WELCOME TO BRYANT

After 108 years in the City of Providence where the college was founded in 1863, Bryant now occupies a 220 acre rural hilltop site in Smithfield. The structure of the campus is considered one of the most modern in the country.

Bryant Gets Ten Year Accreditation

Bryant College has earned the right to be recognized by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education. This particular accrediting body represents five constituent organizations and is a non-profit voluntary accrediting body devoted exclusively to the evaluation and accreditation of teacher education programs. It is recognized by the National Commission of Accrediting as the only national accrediting agency for the preparation of teachers for all grades and subjects at the elementary and secondary school levels and programs for the preparation of school service personnel for these levels.

After three long hard years of statistical gathering, analysis, and report writing under the direction of Dean Lionel Mercier, this accreditation became a reality.

Dean Mercier deserves just praise for the amazing task he performed. Bryant College will lose Dean Mercier to retirement at the end of this semester, but his great contribution will be felt for years to come.

Great strides in the academic field have been made under Dr. Tom Munton (Provost) and Dean Galski. However, without the facilities of the library headed by Mr. John Hannon and the fine faculty out of the Business Education Department, this all would not have been possible. The Teacher Ed staff includes Priscilla Moulton Phillips, department head, along with Ledger Morrison, Francis F. Ferguson, Clarissa Hayfield Patterson, Anthony G. Porreca, and Marie B. Cote. One of the benefits which has accompanied NCATE accreditation in recent years has been the agreement reached among a number of states to accept students from NCATE accredited institutions for certification. For several years, the number of states which will do this has numbered about forty-six. The Council's List, among other documents available, will identify the states at any given moment.

The practical meaning of "NCATE reciprocity" is this: A number of states (with several others considering it) have expressed a willingness to accept the graduates of NCATE-approved institutions for automatic certification, even when, in instances, the graduates of such institutions have not met all of the requirements listed by the particular states. At the time a student looks for a job, he contacts the certification officer in that state and applies for a teaching certificate. The certification officer supplies a form on which the graduating institution indicates that the student is a graduate of a NCATE-approved program. Upon the return of this signed statement from the institution, a certificate is issued. There are variations in the practice of reciprocity as you might imagine. Some states issue an initial certificate but specify state requirements must be met a given date. Others reserve the right to deny a certificate based on their own analysis of the transcript which must always be attached to the application. The records show that this has sometimes been done when the state has felt that the student's program of studies and his record of achievement were too different from what the state held as its own standard. In most cases, however, even when the receiving state has made its own analysis of the transcript to supplement the recommendation, the certification process has been facilitated with real benefits being passed along to students.

This particular accreditation is the highest possible business teacher education accreditation available in the United States to date. It will last for a ten year period, which started from September 1, 1969, up until reevaluation September 1, 1980. Only ten percent of the colleges in the U.S. have such an accreditation. The reason that this accreditation is being announced at this particular time is because Bryant College officially goes on the NCATE listings, as of November 1, 1971.

WJMF WENT TO INTERCOM TODAY

by Kevin J. McGarry

It was learned at 1:30 p.m. on Thursday that Bryant's own radio station—WJMF—would officially begin broadcasting on the intercom system of the College.

Word came from Dr. Fullerton's office that the policies for the station had been agreed upon and approved.

There were several obstacles along the way of making the radio station a reality. Perhaps the most monumental problem was that of WTEV petitioning the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to deny Bryant College, Southeastern Massachusetts University, and Bridgewater State, along with several other colleges and schools, licenses for their stations. WTEV did this on the contention that these stations would interfere with their frequency. According to John Orrell of the radio station, there is no potential threat to WTEV from ten-watt stations. Faculty dispute delays opening

By Craig Bricker

Bryant College students enjoyed an unexpected extra week of summer vacation when, on August 27, the Bryant College Faculty Federation voted to reject the contract offer made by the College, and in addition voted not to work without a contract.

On this basis, President O'Hara decided to defer the start of classes indefinitely on August 28, a little over one week before classes were to start. Letters were sent to Bryant students informing them of the situation and the decision to delay opening, stating that, "It is unfortunate that these developments occur on college campuses."

So students would have to wait out the second labor dispute to hit Bryant in six months. Meanwhile, several students had already gathered on campus early, such as R.A.'s and core staffs from the major student organizations, in order to be ready for the onslaught of students to arrive over the Labor Day weekend. At first it was unknown how long the strike would last, so they continued with their various jobs; however, on Thursday, August 30, these students were sent home. Rumors were that the strike could last more than two weeks. These "early arrival" students were

Others to the college were told that the college was in a bind. Faculty Federation members had been on strike since August 27, and their last contract had expired. Both sides were negotiating, and no picket line was set up, so maintenance and workers continued to ready for the flood of students that they hoped would come soon. There was little bitterness between faculty and administration as negotiations continued.

The College insisted on sticking with President Carter and his wage and price guidelines, even to the point of making concessions on its stand on additional fringe benefits. The final settlement included pay increases of 8.1 percent the first year and 6.5 percent the second, with the possibility of 8 percent should there be no wage and price guidelines or controls in effect. In addition, more fringe benefits, including an obituary rider on the Delta Dental plan, were agreed upon. Official word of the settlement

New Business Communications Major

By Craig Bricker

"Communication skills are becoming increasingly important in the business world. In addition to seeking business majors who can speak and write effectively, companies and agencies are now recruiting communications specialists who have a supplemental background in business." This is the basic rationale behind a newly announced concentration in Business Communications, to be implemented in the fall of 1980. The new concentration intends to prepare good writers with a solid business background. Job opportunities in this field include work in advertising, public relations, publications, technical writing and editing, among other fast-growing fields. The program, though developed primarily by the English Department, is the result of a unique of which exist already, and many of which are new. New courses will include: Business Communication Theory, Public Relations, Advanced Public Speaking, Seminars in Advanced Business Writing, and a Practicum (internship). The program will be implemented incrementally, starting with the lower level (junior and senior) courses. Course development is ongoing, and funding for the task has been sought from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Already the first stage "consultant" grant has been received, with other grants due in the spring. This in itself will be a first for Bryant College to receive outside funding for course development. These funds will be used to develop the program to its full potential. The Admissions Department hopes 25 freshmen will enroll in the program in the fall of 1980.

Tutorial Service

Having a difficult time with your studies? or interested in tutoring other students? If your answer is yes to either of these questions, then you will be interested in the Tutorial Program.

The program is open to all students.

Most tutors are free of charge or under $2.00 per hour. Sometimes studying with a tutor can make all the difference for you.

If you want to tutor, it's a great way to help others and reaffirm your knowledge in a subject area.

If you wish to be involved or want further information, see Carol Davis in the Counseling Center (Monday-Friday 8:30-4:30 p.m.).

Bryant BB Ranked Nationally

Sports Commentary

Welcome back Bryantonians to your No. 13 Basketball team in Div. 2 in the country. This is despite the loss at the hands of Eastern Illinois, 83-58. The first half was close and they had a very small halftime lead. They utilized a full court man to man defense which the Indians weren't used to. The Indians have a home game tomorrow against Springfield College at 8PM.

Intramural hoop starts next week and it plans to be an exciting as ever. The hockey team is having problems but give them credit for their effort! TO THE PROS: Look who made it to the NFC Championship game! Yes, the Bucs have something to be proud of. The Steel curtain rises again. The Celtics tied for the lead in the Atlantic Div. with Philly. Also if they acquire the sensational Pistol Pete they could be dangerous. The Bruins also doing very well. Well that is it for this week sports fans, this is your editor signing off wishing you a merry Winter Weekend, but stay out of trouble.

by Gary Goldberg

The Bryant College Indians, under head coach Leon Drury have been ranked No. 1 in New England Div. 2 and 13 in the entire country. This is quite an honor for the team and it will hopefully open some doors up to national playoffs. The 2 losses they have faced have been in over time to Western New England and No. 8 nationally ranked Eastern Illinois.

They have been playing excellent team basketball with each player knowing where to be at the appropriate time. Being very well organized can be contributed to their success. Their starting five have good experience from last year's exciting season. They are center

Don Sweet, forwards Dan Mazzula and All New England Ernie DeWitt, guards Johnny Magnum and Bobby Mahon who controls the offense. Both Mazzula and DeWitt joined the 1,000 point club last season. DeWitt still has one more season to go after this one ends. Upcoming games for the "Super Indians" are: January 26 Springfield (H) January 29 RIC (A) January 31 Babson (A) February 2 Quinnipiac (A) February 4 Sacred Heart (H) February 6 Bentley (H)

One of their biggest battles of the season comes February 21 when the Indians will face arch-rival Assumption College. We all will remember last year's game (which was on Ch. 27) in which we lost a heartbreaker in overtime. They are missing their big star so we should scalp them from top to bottom. Once again congratulations are in order for the fine coach and his staff. Come on out and see your "Super Indians" scalp their way to the Championship!

Varsity Bowling

Bryant's Varsity Bowling Team again proved itself to be one of the best teams in the Tri-State Bowling Conference. After four league tournaments, Bryant leads the R1, Conn. NY Division with 139.5 points followed by Rensselaer Polytechnic and the Univ. of Conn. with 134 and 133 point respectively.

The Southern Conn. State College tournament proved to be a successful one for Bryant, taking 38 out of 54 points. Joe Caramiello had an excellent day with a 570 series in the team event and 624 series in the doubles event. Hiss 199 average for the day included a 269 game, placing second for the league high individual game.

In a Tri-State Doubles tournament held in Wilbraham MA, Bryant took the first place team trophy beating out second place Western New England College and third place Univ. of Lowell. The Bryant doubles teams of Layne Miller and Joe Caramiello (2959 pins), Steve Pekuenec and Mike Fabian (2950 pins), and John Lisee and Mike Ferrar (2940 pins) placed fifth, sixth, and seventh respectively. Joe Caramiello bowled another excellent series, averaging 196 for nine games with Mike Ferrar averaging 190 and Mike Fabian 185.

The team is looking forward to keep its first place ranking in a tournament this Saturday hosted by West Point Military Academy in New York. The team will be facing stiff competition bowling third ranked Univ. of Conn. in the team event and West Point on home lanes in the doubles event.
